

THE HARTFORD REPUBLICAN.

JO. B. ROGERS, Publisher.

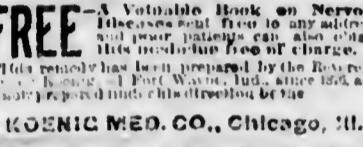

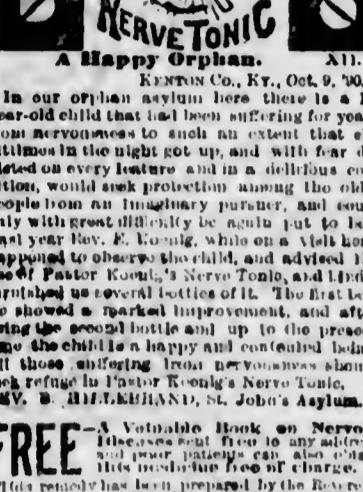

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE PARTY IN THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

TERMS---$1.25 Per Annum, in Advance.

NO. 7.

VOL. V.

HARTFORD, KY., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1892.

Agents Wanted!
H. A. LOZETIER & CO.,
Wholesale Drapers,
CLEVELAND, O.
340 Superior St.

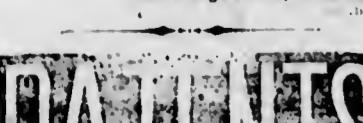

Kendall's Spavin Cure.
Worrell Co., Md., May 2, 1892.
Dear Sirs—About three years ago I wrote to you about a horse I owned which had a Spavin. I used the Spavin Cure, and it removed the Spavin, and has done much work all the time since. R. C. KIRKMAN.

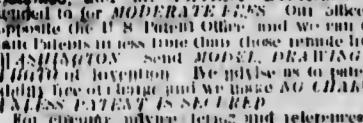

Kendall's Spavin Cure.
COLUMBIA, Ala., July 24, 1892.
Dear Sirs—I send you my bill for $1.00, which I have now paid. I have effectively removed one case of Spavin Cure, and I sincerely recommend it to all others who have had the same trouble. R. C. KIRKMAN.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,
Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,
Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,
Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

WASHINGTON.

A Worthy Tribute to the President's Letter of Acceptance.

The President's letter of acceptance which is still the principle topic of conversation, marks an era in political literature. It is the first time that a Presidential candidate, whether for his first or second term, ever took National issues, great and small, before the country, and the Democrats who know that Mr. Cleveland does not follow along the same track are in a pickle of trouble; they are at a loss how to counteract the effect of the plan, straightforward statements made by the President concerning the position of the Republican party, and covering the actual beneficial results all classes of our people have received under the present administration, all due to Republican statesmanship, and all accomplished in the face of the active and constant opposition of the Democratic party. The President has given Mr. Cleveland a square knock-down, the first in the game for the Presidential belt.

On every hand and by all classes of men, the President's letter is commended. Col. W. W. Dudley, who was opposed to the renomination of the President, says of it: "The letter is a most admirable one—by all odds far beyond parallel with any previous similar document. It treats all the issues before the people in a broad-minded, liberal and intelligent manner, and will inspire in the Republican bosom rare degree of enthusiasm. It furnishes to every campaign speaker his text on any topic he may desire to discuss. The letter could not be improved." Secretary Ruske,—"It is the best letter of acceptance I have ever seen." Senator Paddock, of Nebraska:—"It is a stunningly good demonstration of Republican principles. The President gets right to the heart of everything. There is not a waste word in the whole letter, and as a literary production it has great merit. I am sure that it will command the respect and admiration of even the President's enemies. With that letter of acceptance well distributed we will not need any stump speeches to disseminate Republican ideas. It is vigorous and inspiring. The President is a remarkable man. Take him altogether, I think, we have never had anyone quite like him in the Executive Mansion." Now hear the opinion of a Democrat—Senator Pugh, of Alabama:—"The letter is well written and business-like presentation of the issues involved in his Administration, and contains all arguments to support the Republican policy on the tariff, currency and other questions. It will be, I think, the text of the canvass in support of his re-election."

Mr. Blaine's great letter on the paramount issues of the campaign—Protection to American industries, Reciprocity and a sound financial system is a worthy companion for the President's letter, showing, as it does, that the official leader of the Republican party and the unofficial, but none the less adored, leader of the Republican party stand shoulder to shoulder on the leading issues of this campaign.

These two letters should be printed together and be placed in the hands of every voter of the United States. For concise, comprehensive, condensed and convincing arguments in favor of the great principles advocated by the Republican party they have never been, and probably never will be surpassed.

Judge Crouse, having placed his resignation as assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the hands of the President, to take effect when accepted, this week for Nebraska, of which state he is confident of being the next Governor. He carried the good wishes of all the Republicans hereabouts with him.

Postmaster General Wanamaker opened the bids this week for carrying Ocean mails under the advertisements issued by the Post Office Department some time ago. Among the bids received were those of the U. S. and Brazil Mail Steamship Company, from New York to Rio, calling at St. Thomas, Martinique, Barbadoes, Para, Maranhao, Pernambuco, Bahia, and Rio, and every twenty-four days in vessels of the fourth-class; same Company, New York to Buenos Ayres, calling at St. Thomas, Peru, Bahia, Rio and Montevideo, once in forty-five days; same Company, New York to Rio, calling at same ports as first bid, once every fourteen days. Mr. Wanamaker is very much pleased and it is probable that all the bids will be accepted. All of these Steamships will carry the American flag and be officered by Americans. Another result of the legislation of the billion dollar Congress.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

However, the magazine is so full of merit that it requires no exertion to secure subscribers, and this is a good chance for some of our musical young people to get a piano for nothing.

Postmaster General Wanamaker immediately relayed his bid for carrying Ocean mails under the advertisements issued by the Post Office Department some time ago. Among the bids received were those of the U. S. and Brazil Mail Steamship Company, from New York to Rio, calling at St. Thomas, Martinique, Barbadoes, Para, Maranhao, Pernambuco, Bahia, and Rio, and every twenty-four days in vessels of the fourth-class; same Company, New York to Buenos Ayres, calling at St. Thomas, Peru, Bahia, Rio and Montevideo, once in forty-five days; same Company, New York to Rio, calling at same ports as first bid, once every fourteen days.

Mr. Wanamaker is very much pleased and it is probable that all the bids will be accepted. All of these Steamships will carry the American flag and be officered by Americans. Another result of the legislation of the billion dollar Congress.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

However, the magazine is so full of merit that it requires no exertion to secure subscribers, and this is a good chance for some of our musical young people to get a piano for nothing.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

However, the magazine is so full of merit that it requires no exertion to secure subscribers, and this is a good chance for some of our musical young people to get a piano for nothing.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is only $2.50 a year, it shows by a simple sum that they make nothing by the transaction.

It is remarkable that such an offer can be made, and when one considers that the subscription price is

Hartford Republican

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

JO. B. ROBERTS, - Editor and Proprietor.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1892.

We are authorized to announce

E. P. NEAL,

Of Prentiss, Ohio county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of the Sixth Judicial District of Kentucky, composed of the counties of Ohio, Hancock, Davies and McLean. Election, November 8, 1892.

Republican Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT,
BENJAMIN HARRISON,
Of Indiana.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
WHITEHAWK REED,
Of New York.

FOR CONGRESS
C. M. BARNETT,
Of Ohio County.

FOR SHERIFF,
CLAYTON L. WOODWARD.

FOR CIRCUIT COURT CLERK,
SEPTIMUS T. STEVENS.

A vote for Harrison means Protection and prosperity; a vote for Cleveland, Free Trade and poverty.

THE Hardin County Fair is in progress at Elizabethtown this week. Large crowds, the stock and good races are the features.

The Herald openly admits that the State is in a "miserable condition of affairs." So it is and the Democratic party alone is responsible.

THE Fair Company are making great efforts for the most successful meeting ever held in the county. Fine and fast stock will be on exhibition and a good time is expected. Time, Sept. 23 to Oct. 1.

This is a big week for the army of the Cumberland. Thousands of old soldiers gathered at Chickamauga to take part in the great reunion. The 17th Kentucky is represented by our own gallant Capt. S. K. Cox.

GOVERNOR BUCHANAN, of Tennessee, has decided to run as an independent candidate for re-election, the regular Democrats have refused him a nomination. He and Grover Cleveland will run in the State on the platform "Clemency to murderers when they are of the chivalry."

MISS JOSE DUEK has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for Superintendent of Schools in her new home, Livingston, Montana. It is only to be regretted that such an able and deserving woman as Miss Jose should have such bad politics. Who is it so blind that he will not see that England is attempting our downfall?

LET the teachers and pupils of the various schools in the county prepare to celebrate Columbus Day on October 21st, just, with appropriate exercises. It is a great National event and a rare opportunity to instill a love of country in the minds of the children. Let schools that can procure one raise a flag on that day in honor of the great event that is meant to be celebrated together with the great strides in civilization that have arisen as a result of the great discovery. See program on outside.

THE federal tax on the currency of State banks has been a thorn in the side of the States rights Democrats for many years. The Democratic platform now advocates its repeal and, in effect, a return to the old wild-cat system of currency issued by State banks. Secretary of the Treasury, Foster, in his first speech of the campaign, has shown that every panic in the country's history followed an inflation of currency by the over-issue of State bank circulation. No one ever lost a dollar on national bank circulation. The people will put a seal of condemnation on the project to restore wild-cat banks.

THE Democratic Congress has not yet offered to repeal the McKinley law, and it has not proposed any measure to take its place by which the people may judge of the merits of the plans of the two parties. Of course this was done simply that the party might not be committed to anything definite and that the people might be baffled by different promises in different places, to suit the desire and demands of the people in each place. But the nation is well informed that the return to power of the Democratic party means the repeal of protective laws and the admission of products of cheap foreign labor.

THEZ was a howl of exultation went up from the Democrats all over the country at the time of the unfortunate outbreak of violence at Homestead. Democratic leaders, in Congress and out, did not hesitate to say that the event offered excellent campaign material. So they sent a committee of the House off to Homestead to investigate and work up the material. Judge Oates, of Alabama, a Democrat, was chairman of this committee. After the investigation it was seen that affairs at Homestead offered nothing in the way of material for the Democratic campaign, so it was determined by the House to postpone receiving the report "until after the election." Judge Oates had, however, prepared his views in the form of a report, which the other Democrats on the committee refused to subscribe to. He therefore gave them out to the public as his own private views after the advantages for investigation he had had. Because these views are not such as to make good campaign material, Colonel Jones, of the St. Louis Republic, and other influential Democrats are now demanding that Oates ought to be defeated for re-election, and that he is not a good Democrat. It is not good Democracy to speak the truth.

COL. C. M. BARNETT will open his canvass next Monday at Mumfordville, a large crowd is hoped for and expected.

THE only difference between a Democrat and an English patriot is that the Englishman is in England, while the Democrat is in this country.

THE poisoning of Mrs. Sherrill, of Louisville, has created considerable interest throughout the State, as Mr. Sherrill is a prominent traveling man and well known.

WE learn the Third Party is kicking about the big bargain and sale they are making with those two hundred supposed office-loving Democrats and Republicans. Don't kick, if the shoe pinches, wear it.

WE acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary ticket to the Ohio County Fair, which convenes September 28, 29, 30 and October 1. The Fair promises to be good, and everybody should attend and help sustain this worthy enterprise.

AN English paper remarks that as their elections are over it would be exceedingly wise for all English editors and speakers to be entirely neutral about the state of affairs in America, for fear that in their efforts to further the interests of Free Trade through their willing ally, the Democratic party, they may do the cause more harm than good by appearing just a little too much interested in American politics. Who says these papers are actuated by honorable motives? Who is it so blind that he will not see that England is attempting our downfall?

THE People's Party has reached that stage of decline where it has set up an inner secret organization, with grips, passwords, signs, and the like. It is said to have been this compact organization within the People's Party that controlled the recent convention at Omaha and forced Weaver upon the convention. The oath which members are required to take is iron-clad and ends "I willfully break this oath I hereby surrender my body to the just vengeance of the members of this order." This edifying organization is known as the "Band of Gideons" and chose for its first president, or Mighty Chief Gideon, Congressman Livingston, of Georgia, who has doubtless had experience in Ku Klux organizations that stood him in good stead in devising all the mummery that characterizes this organization.

A Free Trader on Wages
Mr. Edward Atkinson, a free trader and a Cleveland Democrat, said in the May Forum:

"There has never been a period in the history of this or any other country when the general rate of wages was as high as it is now or the prices of goods relatively to the wages as low as they are today, nor a period when the workman, in the strictest sense of the word, has so fully secured to his own use and enjoyment such a steady and progressively increasing proportion of a constantly increasing product."

The same gentleman in the Boston Herald says:

"Since 1880 there has been a marked increase in the rate of wages or earnings of all occupations of every kind above the grade of common laborers. So far as the writer has been able to obtain the data, this advance in rates of wages may be estimated at from 10 to 20 per cent., as compared with the rates of 1880, the proportionate advance in each case being in ratio to the relative skill required in the work. The wages of the common laborer have not advanced very much, but he has been rendered able to buy more for his wages on account of the reduction in prices. The skilled laborer has secured the highest rate of wages ever known in this or any other country, and can also buy more for each dollar. The advocate of free trade who denies this advance makes a mistake."

Protection and Constitution.
[GOVERNOR MCKINLEY.]

Protection unconstitutional! A policy which is as old as the government; a policy which commenced with the government; a policy which was recognized in the second act ever passed by the Congress of the United States, by a Congress participated in by many of the framers of the Constitution, fresh from the preparation and promulgation of that great instrument. That Congress passed a law in 1789, the preamble of which declared it to be:

"For the support of the government, for the discharge of the debts of the United States, and for the encouragement and protection of manufacturers."

That law was passed by a unanimous vote in the Senate of the United States, and by a majority of five to one in the House of Representatives, was reported by Mr. Madison, who was afterwards President of the United States and was approved by George Washington.

It is in violation of any constitution it is not that of the United States. It is a manifest violation of the constitution of the Confederate States. Possibly that is what they recognize that instrument—and never did—and we are not operating under it. It went down before the restive armies of the Union, commanded by Grant and Sherman, and the constitution of Washington and Lincoln was sustained, which from its birth time until now, has recognized and justified the principle of a protective tariff. Hamilton and Madison, Jefferson and Calhoun, Clay and Webster, Adams and Jackson always asserted and maintained the constitutionality of protection.

IS Cleveland a better constitutional lawyer than Jefferson; is Vilas more learned than Madison; Watterson more profound than Clay; Adlai Stevens a better exponent of the Constitution than Andrew Jackson; all of them combined safer interpreters of that great instrument than the Supreme Court of the United States, which has never failed when called upon to sustain the constitutionality of a protective tariff?

To the Teachers in the Rosine Magisterial District.

MR. A. Lee Bennett was appointed by our Superintendent, to arrange a programme for the first Teachers' Meeting in our district. Mr. Bennett, on account of the late date on which he will begin teaching, has requested me to act for him in this capacity. After consultation with some of the teachers, I have decided to call the first meeting at Sulphur Springs. Mrs. Morton has kindly offered me the use of the hall and grove, and I think you can spend the day both pleasantly and profitably. It has been impossible for me to obtain a list of all the teachers in the district, but I hope all will be present, ready to take an active part in all the discussions. We invite the teachers connected with other organizations to meet with us, on Saturday, September 24, and help us to make the first meeting a success. The program is as follows:

Devotional Exercises—R. D. Bennett.

Organization.

Object and Importance of Teachers' Meetings—G. W. Miller.

NOON.

Grammar—D. H. Godsey.

Essay—Belle Whittinghill.

Arithmetic—J. S. Fitzhough.

Geography—J. D. Oliver, Bertha Felix, A. R. Renfrow.

Ricress—Educational Journal—

Mrs. J. A. Wedding.

Civil Government—F. M. Petty.

Recitation—Hortense Paget.

The Teachers' Duty—Lucy B. Townsend.

Physiology—Dr. H. F. Begn.

Allow me to suggest that the teachers select some of their students to prepare recitations, so by this means we interest parents and students in our work. A place on the program will be given to any student who will take part. Allow me to urge upon all the teachers, the importance of attending the first meeting.

Respy, Lucy B. Townsend.

George Bradley Dead.

George Bradley, only son of Col. Wm. O. Bradley, died at the family residence in Lancaster, Ky., Friday, of typhoid fever. George Bradley was educated at the Kentucky Military Institute near this city, and was a gentleman of intelligence and popularity. The bereaved father and family have the earnest sympathy of many personal friends.

NOTICE TO READERS.

The Republicans of Grayson county are requested to meet at the Court House in Leitchfield, on the fourth Monday in this month, (the 26th day) at one o'clock p. m. to reorganize the Republican Committee, caused by the creation of the new precincts and to organize a Harrison and Reid Club on that day. Hoping all Republicans will attend, I am, Respy,

DAN O'RILEY, Chairman.

4 Days only.

ENTERTAINED.

Judge H. W. English and his accomplished wife did with very courteous part by a number of friends at the Elizabethtown Fair Wednesday. They had spread a sumptuous dinner, which at their very kind invitation was partaken of by the following named: Dr. W. G. Hunter, Bowling Green; S. Calvin Taylor, Col. C. M. Barnett, Judge E. D. Walker, Wm. Milligan, A. T. Nall, Rowan Holbrook, R. D. Walker and Jo. B. Rogers, Hartford, all of whom enjoyed the reception most heartily.

Judge English is an elegant gentleman and is County Judge of Hardin county and Vice-president of the Fair Company, and a brother to Mrs. E. D. Walker, of this city. Mrs. English is a highly cultured lady of great mental and moral worth, and it goes without saying that both will be most kindly remembered by those who enjoyed their generous hospitality.

September the twenty-eighth.

Public Speaking.

List of appointments as agreed upon by the Chairmen of the various committees. County candidates to speak. All others invited:

Sulphur Springs, Monday, Sept. 19.

Rosine, Tuesday, Sept. 20.

Horse Branch, Thursday, Sept. 22.

Haven's Store, Friday, Sept. 23.

Select, Saturday, Sept. 24.

Cromwell, Monday, Sept. 26.

Prentice, Tuesday, Sept. 27.

Hartford, Monday, Oct. 3.

Centertown, Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Poole Pleasant School, near Wm. Ticknor's at night, Oct. 4.

Equality church, Wednesday, Oct. 5.

Cerro, Thursday, Oct. 6.

Rockport, Friday, Oct. 7.

Taylorstown Schoolhouse, Sat., Oct. 8.

Beda, Monday, Oct. 10.

Woodward Valley Church, Tuesday, Oct. 11.

Buford, Wednesday, Oct. 12.

Bells Run, Thursday, Oct. 13.

Beaver Dam, Friday, Oct. 14.

McHenry, at night, Oct. 14.

Magan, Monday, Oct. 16.

Etowah, Tuesday, Oct. 17.

Pauher Creek Church, Wednesday,

Oct. 18.

Haynes, Thursday, Oct. 19.

Fordsville, Friday, Oct. 20.

Shreve, Saturday, Oct. 21.

Speaking begins at 1 o'clock, p. m.

All other candidates are respectfully invited.

Woon Tinsley,

Chair'n Rep. Com.

F. W. Pittler,

Chair'n P. P. Com.

Rowan Holbrook,

Chair'n Dem. Com.

They Played Ball.

According to arrangements the Owensboro Baseball Club came over to Hartford last Saturday and met the McHenry team. From the beginning it was seen that the McHenry club was getting the worst of it, and it was only a very short while until the Owensboro club had so far exceeded the McHenry's in score that it was impossible for them to win. The score stood Owensboro, 22; McHenry, 7.

List of Appointments.

Col. C. M. Barnett will address the people of the Fourth Congressional District at the following named times and places:

Mumfordsville, Mon., Sept. 19, 1 p. m.

Greensburg, Thurs., Sept. 21, 1 p. m.

Campbellsville, Sat., Sept. 24, 1 p. m.

Lebanon, Mon., Sept. 26, 1 p. m.

Springfield, Wed., Sept. 28, 1 p. m.

Bardstown, Thurs., Sept. 29, 1 p. m.

NOTICED.

A semiannual dividend of $4.00 per share was this day declared, payable on and after July 5, 1892.

I, S. K. COX, swear the above to be correct.

S. K. COX, President.

Sworn to before me this June 30,

1892. A. T. NALL, D.C.O.C.C.

Remembered.

[Howard Knobell Contract.]</p

FAIR BROS. & CO.

They Are Here!

THOSE - SPLENDID - DRIVES!

Not drives by moonlight—for there is no "moonshine" about this—but "drives" on special lines of

NEW FALL GOODS

That have been selected with especial care to the wants of the people of Hartford. And

NOW COMES OUR DISPLAY.

It is an event in the commercial annals of our beautiful town.

OUR LEADERS ARE

Fine Millinery,
Dress Goods,
Fall Wraps,
Fine Goods,
Clothing.

But these are simply features in the General Plain. We can show you the handsomest line of Novelties. Latest Novelties, that were ever introduced in Ohio county, besides the largest line of Prints, Ginghams, Bleach and Brown Cotton, Shirtings, Bed Tickings, Jeans, Yarns, Bed Comforts, Linseys at prices that down competition. Farmers purchasing large bills should call on us at once.

FAIR BROS. & CO., Props.,
Hartford Temple of Fashion.

Furniture! Furniture!!

For Ward-Robes
Dressers, Suits, Rockers or anything in the General Furniture Line, see

T. J. MORTON.

N. N. & M. V. R. R.

TRAINS LEAVE BEAVER DAM.
TRAIN GOING WEST.
No. 4, Mail and Express..... 12:00 P.M.
No. 7, Limited Express..... 1:30 P.M.
TRAIN GOING EAST.
No. 6, Mail and Express..... 1:45 P.M.
No. 8, Limited Express..... 3:45 A.M.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 61, 1892.

Trade with Carson & Co.

Trade with Fair Bros. & Co.

Schupnure is selling lots of Shoes.

Buy a new Hat of Carson & Co.

Buy your Millinery at Fair Bros. & Co.

10c black Cotton—8c at Fair Bros. & Co.

Others blow; Fair Bros. & Co. sell the goods.

You can find what you want at Carson & Co.

See the nice Shoes Schupnure is receiving for fall.

3 yards Shaker Flannel $1.00 at Fair Bros. & Co.

Fair Bros. & Co. are doing the clothing business.

Why is the Fair like Christmas? Answer next week.

Cheapest, most stylish Millinery to be found is at Fair Bros. & Co.

WORK HARD and get in your tobacco so you can go to the Fair.

Foster, the weather prophet, says the next cold wave will bring frost.

ONE HALF fare on the C. O. & W. railroad to the Ohio County Fair.

Everybody wants a nice, fashionable hat for the Fair, call on Fair Bros. & Co.

No hats nor chromos at Fair Bros. & Co. Solid bargains is their inducements.

NO ENTRANCE fee to any rings, so there will be nothing to lose and all to win at the Fair.

Don't forget to look over our entire stock of mens, boys and children clothing at Kahn's.

If you are behind with us come in, pay up and a year in advance and go to the Fair one day free.

Now is your chance to look at the newest styles of Ladies Wrappers and Cloaks at lowest figures. KAHN.

Don't fail to see our new line of Dress Goods before buying. CARSON & CO.

20 yards heavy cotton, $1.00.

20 yards best bleached cotton, $1.

20 yards best calico, $1. KAHN.

Be honest to yourself and you will be kind to your horse and have Casbier & Burton feed him when in town.

Born, to the wife of C. R. Campbell, Sunday, the 11th inst, a girl, Dr. L. T. Cox attending physician.

For sample dry goods by mail, send to the Golden Rule Store, 228 Fourth Avenue, Louisville. Mention the RE-PUBLICAN.

Arrangements have been made to entertain a large crowd at the Sunday School Union at McHenry tomorrow.

Casbier & Burton will be prepared to give your horse the best of feed and attention. So call on them and be convinced.

The Pratt's Food to be given away at the Fair is now on exhibition at Williams, Bell & Co.'s, who are agents for the same.

Wm. Milligan will address the Republican Club at Beda next Wednesday night. Everybody come and hear the old war horse.

Schapnure has just received a big stock of Leather, Shoe Uppers and Shoe Findings. Leave your measure with him for a good pair of shoes.

There are so many who waste their breath blowing, but everybody knows that we are leaders'.

KAHN'S TRADE PALACE.

Andersons Bazaar is the cheapest place in town or county to trade. One price to all is our motto.

SARA & ME.

We invite all our friends to call on us before or during the Fair, and see our many bargains in Dress Goods, &c.

SARA & ME.

In giving the list of those who obtained first-class certificates at the recent examinations we neglected to mention the name of Mr. A. P. Taylor.

Why is that some people are always happy? Because they ride on Casbier & Burton's bus—everybody can be made happy if they will. Come one, come all.

The New York Tribune or a complimentary ticket to the Fair as you choose, with every new subscriber or to every subscriber who pays up and a year in advance.

Old Hartford College never had a more auspicious beginning than this year. A large number of boarding students have matriculated and several more are yet to come.

The Racket Store Shoe auction to-morrow. No un(fair) trash to sell. All shoes warranted as represented. Come and get bargains. Old fair dealer,

SHAKER EX DOWN,

Auctioneer.

Col. J. S. R. Wedding will address the Mt. Pleasant Republican Club to-night and the Fordsville Club to-morrow evening at 1 o'clock. Let everybody turnout and hear this young speaker.

C. C. Bennett, who for the past ten years has had charge of the overland mail line between here and Owensboro, has bought the grocery belonging to T. M. Smith, on Crittenden Street, Owensboro. He will move his family to Owensboro in a few weeks.

We are requested by our old friend, Capt. Dan O'Riley, to say that all the old soldiers and their friends who want to go to the National Encampment at Washington, D. C., that fast train No. 8 will stop at all stations where anyone wants to start from, Sunday morning, Sept. 18, 1892, by notifying Dan O'Riley at Leitchfield, Kentucky.

The new church, Mt. Hebron, lately transferred from No Creek to near Beda, will be dedicated the second Sunday in October. Rev. E. M. Crowe will preach the dedicatory sermon. It will be remembered that this church was destroyed by the cyclone a few years ago and as the members are a little behind with their carpenters, any contribution made on the day of the dedication will be gratefully received. The members and friends will act accordingly.

Hon. H. C. Martin will speak at Leitchfield, Ky., October 1, on the issues of the day from a Republican stand-point. Mr. Martin is a fine orator and should have a good audience.

Strayed or Stolen From my farm, one mile East of Hartford, on the night of Sept. 14th, one Bay horse, black mane and tail and legs, fifteen hands, one inch high, style, ten or eleven years old. A fine saddle and harness horse. A liberal reward will be paid for his return.

J. R. Phillips.

PERSONAL

A. C. Yeiser is attending the Hardin county Fair.

E. W. Taylor, Greenville, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

C. E. Walker and family leave for Louisville to-morrow.

G. T. McHenry returned from Louisville Tuesday night.

W. H. Newcomb, Beda, made our office a pleasant call Tuesday.

Albert McCroeklin went to Owensboro Monday returning Tuesday.

B. F. Gray, Beaver Dam, returned from Mondays and Saturdays. Will be glad to make prices to those who contemplate cutting legs.

Cal. C. M. Barnett attended the Hardin county Fair this week.

Mrs. S. B. Howard, at the Hardin House.

Mrs. Susanna Hendrix, Bremer, Ky., is visiting the family of Jesse Potter.

Miss Josie Bell, Bulord, is visiting Mrs. S. B. Howard, at the Hardin House.

Mrs. J. M. Casbier and son, Master Clarence, returned from Louisville Tuesday.

Mrs. J. C. Riley, Kinderhook, who has been quite ill for some time.

Ed. Barnes, of Hoeker and Co., in the Eastern cities buying a full stock of goods.

Miss Rose Taylor, Beaver Dam, returned Wednesday night from a pleasant visit to Louisville.

Miss Ella Hunter, Pleasant Ridge, and Miss Lulu London, Addison, are visiting Miss Artie Bennett.

Shelly Taylor, of the firm of Taylor & Co., Beaver Dam, is in the East buying new goods for his firm.

J. Henry B. Carson, of Carson and Co., who has been East purchasing a full stock of goods returned Tuesday.

Miss May King, of Henderson county, who has been visiting Miss Sallie Cate, left for her home Tuesday.

Mrs. M. S. Rowe and daughter, Miss Mabel, Greenville, are the guests of the family of Henry Field.

Miss Ollic Anderson, Kinderhook, will leave to-day for a few weeks to friends and relatives in Owensboro.

Miss Laura Chapman has gone to Paducah, where she has accepted a position as teacher in the public schools.

G. T. Westerfield has accepted a position in J. W. Ford & Co.'s store at McHenry. He left for that place yesterday.

Mrs. Nannie Spalding, after spending two weeks visiting friends and relatives in Louisville, returned Wednesday night.

Mrs. Nannie Young, Corsicana, Tex., and sister, Miss Abbie Atherton, of Livermore, visited friends in town Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. G. J. Bean and daughter, Miss Annie, will attend the Annual Conference, which meets at Campbellsburg next week.

Mrs. M. S. Rowe and daughter, Miss Mabel, Greenville, are the guests of the family of Henry Field.

Miss Ollic Anderson, Kinderhook, will leave to-day for a few weeks to friends and relatives in Owensboro.

Capital Stock $25,000.00

Reserve 862.31

Surplus 2,250.00

Interest and Exchange 1,460.40

Deposits Account 54,154.55

Due other Banks 300.33

Banks 28,646.01

$84,027.59

LIABILITIES.

Capital Stock $25,000.00

Reserve 862.31

Surplus 2,250.00

Interest and Exchange 1,460.40

Deposit Account 54,154.55

Due other Banks 300.33

$84,027.59

In submitting this we beg to state that our business has steadily grown each month since our opening, and by the most careful, watchfulness and a strict observance of the principles of the most conservative Banking, we hope not only to extend our acquaintance, but to prove ourselves worthy the confidence that is being so liberally expressed in us.

We are here to accommodate the people, each and every business, courtesy shall be extended to them, but in no case shall safety be sacrificed for friendship or to obtain business. JOHN H. BARNES, Cashier.

Charley Westerfield has accepted a position in the composing rooms of the Louisville Star. Charley is a bright boy, and we wish him success, as he learned the trade in our office.

A. T. Nall, Wm. Milligan, W. H. Griffin, S. C. Taylor, F. W. Yeiser, Warren Holbrook, and Uncle Warren Griffin attended the Hardin county fair at Elizabethtown this week.

Wm. Franklin, W. M. James, Proprietor Timoleo Morton, Cromwell; Eli and Gideon Basham, Hines Mill; A. C. Hocker, South Carrollton, and Andrew Payne, Calhoun, were in town Wednesday.

Among those who took advantage of the excursion to Louisville were J. W. Ford, A. D. White, G. C. Westerfield, W. P. Thomas, Archie Cain, Charlie Blacker, Randall Collins, Tom Black, J. S. Mosley, D. C. Hunley, Virgil Renfrow, R. T. Her, W. M. Hudson, J. C. Riley, C. F. Schapure, Birch Thomas and James Petty.

UNION

Sept. 11.—Mrs. Ann Ross, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. T. Barnard, the past two weeks, has gone to visit Mrs. Drusilla Ross.

The school at this place will begin the 19th, with Baker Rhoads as teacher.

Miss Emma Stevens, Kinderhook, is the guest of Miss Ophelia Stevens. Miss Lida Stevens, Kinderhook, is the guest of her grandfather, W. M. Stevens.

S. B. F.

SHAKER EX DOWN,

Auctioneer.

Come to See Us!

Our new stock of Clothing is coming

in now and we propose to offer a better variety of fine SUITS than ever before. This is an important trade

and we are determined to establish THE MARKET for the country.

Hartford Republican

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1892.

WHO KNOWS.

Who knows we have not lived before?
In former life?—I feel it right and pain?
If dead, is there no after?
Through which we pass to life again?

The fruitful seed beneath the soil
Is infant bed and blosom may rise;
But by the even law of God
It is not quickened till it dies.

The leaves that tremble on the tree
Fallneath the stroke of autumn's storm;
But, by some mighty mystery,
With spring return in other forms.

A river, like a man, has sources now,
So what we were and yet may be.
In this brief life we may not know.

But oft some unexpected gleams
Of past and unremembered years
Break through the doorway of our dreams
And some familiar face appears;

A gentle spirit, lost awhile,
And the change from life to birth,
Whose beaming eye and smiling smile
Reveal some scenes of earth.

And then the secret of the tree,
The mystic link that loves create,
Perhaps we see our own who die,
In newer forms and other states.

Perhaps with every cycle passed
In all the ages yet to be,
Our loved will come to us at last,
As parted waters find the sea;

Not wholly glad as they were gone,
With love and longing for the shades of clay,
But with serpentine face and mien,
And souls that cannot pass away,
—David Banks Stetson in New York Sun.

To Restore Leather Bindings.
To restore the leather bindings of books wash them first very lightly and carefully with clean warm water in which a tiny piece of soda has been dissolved, in order to free the leather from grease; then wash with clear water to remove the soda, and dry. Dissolve a bit of gum arabic the size of a small bean in a teaspoonful of water and beat it up with a teaspoonful of the white of an egg. With a bit of sponge go lightly over the leather with this glair and let it dry. Should the glair froth up on the leather, as it is very likely to do if there is much tool work on the book, dab it until it subsides with the palm of the hand or with the sponge squeezed as dry as possible.—New York Journal.

Morelli's Humor.
Morelli was a man of humor and wit who took a malicious pleasure in making dullness ridiculous. "I remember," says Sir Austen Layard, "once going with him to see a picture which his owner attributed to Latino, and with respect to which he desired to have Morelli's opinion. After looking at it for a moment Morelli said very gravely, 'Lid—no, with a slight emphasis on the no. The owner was delighted and boasted that his picture had been pronounced genuine by the great connoisseur.'—San Francisco Argus.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understand electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force, known to modern science as an electrical attraction—something like the leadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its polarity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.—New York Tribune.

Color Blindness from Smoking.
A somewhat alarming fact is that temporary color blindness may be brought on by excessive smoking. Tobacco mephyltin, it is called, and it may be brought on by smoking "half an ounce of snuff daily," not an excessive allowance, by the way. It disappears when the cause is removed.—New York Times.

The Value of a Good Memory.
Old Philib—I doubt if one man out of twenty can recall to memory the language he used in proposing.
Young Stepmother—Probably not.
But the girl can. Mine did. When the breach of promise suit came up she was able to repeat my proposal word for word.—Exchange.

Put at a Ten Cent Circus.
Did you ever visit a ten cent circus? Not Then a great treat is still in store for you. That is, if you can properly appreciate fun and low humor, especially humor of the involuntary kind. For in those elements of interjoyable entertainment the ten cent circus is way above the fifty cent and one dollar circus. There is in fact more real fun to the square inch in my one of these low priced shows than the better—than there is in the high priced ones to the square yard. And any time you and your friends Jones and Smith—both of them nice, jolly folks like yourself—want to have a genuine rip-roaring time of it just follow my advice and go to an evening's or afternoon's performance any one of the cheap circuses during the season. You'll get about a dollar's worth of fun to every cent expended.—Chicago Herald.

Umbrellas and Religious Services.
Umbrellas have always been intimately associated with religious services in Catholic churches. They were introduced in the church services of the Byzantine church, are borne over the host in procession and form part of the pontifical regalia, as well as that of a cardinal. It is quite likely that the cardinal's hat is derived from the umbrella.

In Italian heraldry a vermillion umbrella in a field argent signifies dominion. The Harleian MSS. has at least one drawing of an Anglo-Saxon gentleman whose servant shades him with a sort of umbrella having a curved handle, and evily looks not meant to close.—Clothier and Furnisher.

A Chance for Big Men.
I met half a dozen fellow creatures in Piccadilly the other day, not mere "sandwich men," but every inch of them spiced out with myriads of advertisements, ranging from tea to trousers, and with this amazing announcement on their foreheads: "Spaces to be let on sixty men." This opens a new vista of employment indeed. Each man will be paid of course according to his superficial area, and therefore very fat people will be sure of a large and probably increasing income.—James Payn's Letter.

The First American Directory.
The first American directory was issued at Philadelphia in 1785 by Francis White. It comprised eighty-three pages, with 3,570 names, and was sold at half a dollar.—Golden Days.

The Power of Association.

To some of us older people new mown hay brings back the days of the war—the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men, of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements, its exultations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened ripe, and on the far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive in old men, an old woman, and sometimes smile at them to linger untimely in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have had time to live. So we moralize over the rich sweetness of the new mown hay.—Harper's Bazaar.

A Dull Youth.

The elder brother of the Iron Duke, as is well known, after carrying away all the honors of school and university, entered parliament at an early age and soon established a character for himself as orator and statesman. The nobilities of Arthur, the younger brother, were of much slower development. The late Earl of Leitrim, who was with him at a small private school in the town of Portarlington, used to speak of him as a singularly dull, backward boy. Gleg, late chaplain general, says that his mother, believing him to be the dunces of the family, not only treated him with indifference, but in some degree neglected his education.

At Eton his intellect was rated at a very low standard, his illnesses in school hours not being reckoned in the eyes of his fellows by any peculiarity. After looking at it for a moment Morelli said very gravely, "Lid—no, with a slight emphasis on the no. The owner was delighted and boasted that his picture had been pronounced genuine by the great connoisseur."—San Francisco Argus.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understand electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force, known to modern science as an electrical attraction—something like the leadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its polarity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.—New York Tribune.

Color Blindness from Smoking.
A somewhat alarming fact is that temporary color blindness may be brought on by excessive smoking. Tobacco mephyltin, it is called, and it may be brought on by smoking "half an ounce of snuff daily," not an excessive allowance, by the way. It disappears when the cause is removed.—New York Times.

The Value of a Good Memory.
Old Philib—I doubt if one man out of twenty can recall to memory the language he used in proposing.

Young Stepmother—Probably not.
But the girl can. Mine did. When the breach of promise suit came up she was able to repeat my proposal word for word.—Exchange.

Put at a Ten Cent Circus.

Did you ever visit a ten cent circus? Not Then a great treat is still in store for you. That is, if you can properly appreciate fun and low humor, especially humor of the involuntary kind. For in those elements of interjoyable entertainment the ten cent circus is way above the fifty cent and one dollar circus. There is in fact more real fun to the square inch in my one of these low priced shows than the better—than there is in the high priced ones to the square yard. And any time you and your friends Jones and Smith—both of them nice, jolly folks like yourself—want to have a genuine rip-roaring time of it just follow my advice and go to an evening's or afternoon's performance any one of the cheap circuses during the season. You'll get about a dollar's worth of fun to every cent expended.—Chicago Herald.

Umbrellas and Religious Services.
Umbrellas have always been intimately associated with religious services in Catholic churches. They were introduced in the church services of the Byzantine church, are borne over the host in procession and form part of the pontifical regalia, as well as that of a cardinal. It is quite likely that the cardinal's hat is derived from the umbrella.

In Italian heraldry a vermillion umbrella in a field argent signifies dominion. The Harleian MSS. has at least one drawing of an Anglo-Saxon gentleman whose servant shades him with a sort of umbrella having a curved handle, and evily looks not meant to close.—Clothier and Furnisher.

A Chance for Big Men.
I met half a dozen fellow creatures in Piccadilly the other day, not mere "sandwich men," but every inch of them spiced out with myriads of advertisements, ranging from tea to trousers, and with this amazing announcement on their foreheads: "Spaces to be let on sixty men." This opens a new vista of employment indeed. Each man will be paid of course according to his superficial area, and therefore very fat people will be sure of a large and probably increasing income.—James Payn's Letter.

The First American Directory.
The first American directory was issued at Philadelphia in 1785 by Francis White. It comprised eighty-three pages, with 3,570 names, and was sold at half a dollar.—Golden Days.

The Power of Association.
To some of us older people new mown hay brings back the days of the war—the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men, of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements, its exultations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened ripe, and on the far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive in old men, an old woman, and sometimes smile at them to linger untimely in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have had time to live. So we moralize over the rich sweetness of the new mown hay.—Harper's Bazaar.

A Dull Youth.
The elder brother of the Iron Duke, as is well known, after carrying away all the honors of school and university, entered parliament at an early age and soon established a character for himself as orator and statesman. The nobilities of Arthur, the younger brother, were of much slower development. The late Earl of Leitrim, who was with him at a small private school in the town of Portarlington, used to speak of him as a singularly dull, backward boy. Gleg, late chaplain general, says that his mother, believing him to be the dunces of the family, not only treated him with indifference, but in some degree neglected his education.

At Eton his intellect was rated at a very low standard, his illnesses in school hours not being reckoned in the eyes of his fellows by any peculiarity. After looking at it for a moment Morelli said very gravely, "Lid—no, with a slight emphasis on the no. The owner was delighted and boasted that his picture had been pronounced genuine by the great connoisseur."—San Francisco Argus.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understand electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force, known to modern science as an electrical attraction—something like the leadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its polarity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.—New York Tribune.

The Power of Association.
To some of us older people new mown hay brings back the days of the war—the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men, of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements, its exultations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened ripe, and on the far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive in old men, an old woman, and sometimes smile at them to linger untimely in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have had time to live. So we moralize over the rich sweetness of the new mown hay.—Harper's Bazaar.

A Dull Youth.
The elder brother of the Iron Duke, as is well known, after carrying away all the honors of school and university, entered parliament at an early age and soon established a character for himself as orator and statesman. The nobilities of Arthur, the younger brother, were of much slower development. The late Earl of Leitrim, who was with him at a small private school in the town of Portarlington, used to speak of him as a singularly dull, backward boy. Gleg, late chaplain general, says that his mother, believing him to be the dunces of the family, not only treated him with indifference, but in some degree neglected his education.

At Eton his intellect was rated at a very low standard, his illnesses in school hours not being reckoned in the eyes of his fellows by any peculiarity. After looking at it for a moment Morelli said very gravely, "Lid—no, with a slight emphasis on the no. The owner was delighted and boasted that his picture had been pronounced genuine by the great connoisseur."—San Francisco Argus.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understand electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force, known to modern science as an electrical attraction—something like the leadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its polarity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.—New York Tribune.

The Power of Association.
To some of us older people new mown hay brings back the days of the war—the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men, of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements, its exultations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened ripe, and on the far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive in old men, an old woman, and sometimes smile at them to linger untimely in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have had time to live. So we moralize over the rich sweetness of the new mown hay.—Harper's Bazaar.

A Dull Youth.
The elder brother of the Iron Duke, as is well known, after carrying away all the honors of school and university, entered parliament at an early age and soon established a character for himself as orator and statesman. The nobilities of Arthur, the younger brother, were of much slower development. The late Earl of Leitrim, who was with him at a small private school in the town of Portarlington, used to speak of him as a singularly dull, backward boy. Gleg, late chaplain general, says that his mother, believing him to be the dunces of the family, not only treated him with indifference, but in some degree neglected his education.

At Eton his intellect was rated at a very low standard, his illnesses in school hours not being reckoned in the eyes of his fellows by any peculiarity. After looking at it for a moment Morelli said very gravely, "Lid—no, with a slight emphasis on the no. The owner was delighted and boasted that his picture had been pronounced genuine by the great connoisseur."—San Francisco Argus.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understand electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force, known to modern science as an electrical attraction—something like the leadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its polarity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.—New York Tribune.

The Power of Association.
To some of us older people new mown hay brings back the days of the war—the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men, of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements, its exultations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened ripe, and on the far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive in old men, an old woman, and sometimes smile at them to linger untimely in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have had time to live. So we moralize over the rich sweetness of the new mown hay.—Harper's Bazaar.

A Dull Youth.
The elder brother of the Iron Duke, as is well known, after carrying away all the honors of school and university, entered parliament at an early age and soon established a character for himself as orator and statesman. The nobilities of Arthur, the younger brother, were of much slower development. The late Earl of Leitrim, who was with him at a small private school in the town of Portarlington, used to speak of him as a singularly dull, backward boy. Gleg, late chaplain general, says that his mother, believing him to be the dunces of the family, not only treated him with indifference, but in some degree neglected his education.

At Eton his intellect was rated at a very low standard, his illnesses in school hours not being reckoned in the eyes of his fellows by any peculiarity. After looking at it for a moment Morelli said very gravely, "Lid—no, with a slight emphasis on the no. The owner was delighted and boasted that his picture had been pronounced genuine by the great connoisseur."—San Francisco Argus.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understand electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force, known to modern science as an electrical attraction—something like the leadstone of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its polarity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.—New York Tribune.

The Power of Association.
To some of us older people new mown hay brings back the days of the war—the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men, of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements, its exultations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened ripe, and on the far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive in old men, an old woman, and sometimes smile at them to linger untimely in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have had time to live. So we moralize over the rich sweetness of the new mown hay.—Harper's Bazaar.

A Dull Youth.
The elder brother of the Iron Duke, as is well known, after carrying away all the honors of school and university, entered parliament at an early age and soon established a character for himself as orator and statesman. The nobilities of Arthur, the younger brother, were of much slower development. The late Earl of Leitrim, who was with him at a small private school in the town of Portarlington, used to speak of him as a singularly dull,